A QUESTION. Come, schoolloys, all, your skill to try, I'll give you an Equation; Not hard sucugh to make you sigh With trouble or vexation.

Two gentlemes, named Jones and Brown, Came to Oak Hall lately, To see the fluest stock in lower. And they admired it greatly.

Both garments bought, but Jones bought more Than Brown—this point remember; The dothne were expellent, I'm sure, And suited to December. The number each one bought, from len Subtracted, leaves a sum Which multiplied by the number's self, To twenty-one does come.

How many garments, now declars, Did Mr. Jones obtain? How many, too, did Mr. Brown At moderate prices gain?
